MY CHEMICAL ELEMENTS Competition (RBT)

Celebrate 150 years of the periodic table of elements by entering CIA Future Forum's International Year of the Periodic Table competition

The big question: What do you consider to be the most important chemical element in your life?

To enter into this competition and be in with a chance to win a prize of £1000 for the school you need to make a poster (maximum A3) about the element which you consider to be the most important in the world we live in today. Entries to Mrs Barrett in Sc8 or the Science office beside Sc7 by Monday 3rd June.

For starters,

- oxygen is the most important element to human's survival,
- potassium is found in fruit and veg,
- argon gas is used in light bulbs; and
- without lithium, there would be no battery to run your mobile phone or laptop.

So, what do you consider the most important element?

Head lice (ERD)

We are aware of a recent outbreak of head lice within the school, seemingly this has not affected a wider group of pupils but just please do be aware and complete regular checks of your child's head.
