Words in the News

A phrase we keep hearing a lot these days is "bail out". What is a "bail out"? Is it:

- (a) A block of hay that has fallen off a tractor
- (b) To rescue someone or something who has having problems with money by paying their debts for them
- (c) A kind of yobbish person who hangs around bays

The answer is, of course, (b). There is a lot of talk at the moment of whether Greece will be bailed out. In other words, will it be given the money it needs to pay off its debts and rescue its economy. In what other situations can you use this phrase?

Eco Kids: remember to look for those items for recycling at home! Eco bags need filling and bringing in to school on Friday June 1st.
